Eco Function

The shower handsets marked with the ECO logo, shown on the left, are supplied with an optional water saving device that reduces water usage by up to 50%.

By reducing water volume but not water pressure, an invigorating shower can still be enjoyed. Simply insert the water saving device supplied between the hose and handset during installation. This device can be removed at any time if required.

N.B. Our handsets are all designed to optimise flow in very low pressure environments. In this instance it may not be necessary to use this optional device. Flow limiters give optimum performance when used on systems giving 1bar pressure or more.

Water Efficient Product Labelling Scheme (WEPLS)

The BMA Water Efficient Product Labelling Scheme is a voluntary scheme and is open to all companies who manufacture or sell product in the UK that meets the criteria for water efficiency products as defined by technical experts within the UK bathroom industry.

The Bathroom Manufacturers Association (BMA), the lead trade association for manufacturers of products in the UK is the facilitator of this scheme.

Croydex have been actively selling water efficient shower accessories for many years and have now been recognised by the Bathroom Manufacturer's Association (BMA) with several of its water efficient shower handsets now included in the Water Efficient Product Labelling Scheme (WEPLS).

Offering the latest water-saving technology, each of the handsets included in the WEPLS scheme feature Croydex's innovative Eco Function. The optional water saving device reduces water usage by up to 50 per cent compared to flow rates through the hand shower without it fitted. Simple to fit, the device is inserted into handset or showerhead during installation and can be removed as and when required. It can be used in conjunction with most systems, excluding electric showers.

Water Saving Shower and Tap Accessories

Historically the UK has had low-pressure gravity fed systems but during the past 2 decades high-pressure systems, pumped systems and combination boilers have become more prevalent. These high-pressure systems can potentially dispense large volumes of water (high flow rates) through your tap or shower that can result in unnecessary wastage of water.

Croydex offers a range of water saving flow regulators that can be added to existing taps or showers* to allow you to save water where high pressures exist without compromising the performance of your tap or shower!

Flow regulators are produced with an ingenious design of components that compensates for increasing pressures whilst keeping the flow constant. This ensures that a constant flow of water is maintained regardless of the water pressure as soon as the regulator reaches the pressure where it starts to regulate. At a pressure of 1 bar the O-ring in the core of the flow regulator begins to compress around the core of the regulator insert so that the water passageway begins to be restricted, this continues as pressure increases. That way you save water, but still keep a good water pressure with a constant flow rate.

The universal adaptor rings for both male and female connections mean that these products can be used on any tap or showers that have a suitable threaded outlet and, as a large amount of water used in the bathroom and kitchen is hot water the cost saving is not only in the water bill but also on energy bills as well.

Our flow limiters are available in a range of ratings from 2 litres to 8 litres so that you can choose how much water you save. We also provide a handy tool to make adding a flow regulator even easier.

* Please note these regulators are not suitable for electric showers or electric hand washing water heaters. These products are designed with a specific flow rate to suit the individual units and any change to this may result in an unsatisfactory performance.
